

FINE WEATHER FOR
BIG PRIMARY VOTE.

Politics About Town Lively
All Morning and Workers Are Out.

POLLS OPEN AT 2 O'CLOCK

Fight of the Constables Enlivens the Local Fight While School Directors are on the Job—The Courier Will Get the Returns.

Ideal weather prevails for a big primary vote this afternoon. The day was clear and just cool enough to be bracing. Politics lived up to considerably today and the workers were out early. The usual crop of rumors was sprung and had the amateur politicians much perturbed. They were greatly worked up over reports of deals that had gained circulation. Those who only smiled at these, recognizing that on election day it is possible to hear anything.

Indications are that the vote of the Republican party in Fayette county will be exceptionally large this year. There has been a red hot campaign for the nominations and the rival candidates are coming down the home stretch without regard to the speed limit.

Locally there is great interest in the county campaign, more so than usual because of the large number of Connellville candidates on both tickets. For local offices there is a mild contest over the nomination for School Directors. The Constables are making things lively.

A foul broke out this morning between Constables J. W. Mitchell and E. E. Stillwagon. Stillwagon, it is said, conceived the idea he had a mortgage on the Fifth Ward job and wanted indignantly because Mitchell, he claimed, suggested that a Republican come out for the nomination. Stillwagon being a Democrat who filed papers for both party nominations.

Stillwagon began campaigning against Mitchell in the first ward and "Buddy" is trying to find out what Stillwagon has to do with the first ward. There is considerable resentment against Stillwagon's invasion of the first ward and the workers of that ward are suggesting that he stay on his own premises. He has a big contract on his hands to deliver all that he has promised to some of the Cooper state candidates anyway.

The polls will open at 2 o'clock and remain open until 8 this evening. Owing to the large ballot and the fact that it is necessary to mark opposite the name of each candidate to be voted for, it will take the voters longer than usual to mark their tickets. The count will likely be late coming in, especially if a heavy vote is cast.

The Courier office will be open until a late hour tonight and any information will gladly be given those who inquire. The Courier will appreciate returns from any district that may be sent in. From the township the vote should be sent to this office as early as possible. It will hardly be possible to determine the outcome of the county fight before early tomorrow morning.

Out at South Connellville there is chagrin because Ben Williams and Joshua Evans were left off the ticket in the borough contest. The candidates do not know how they happened to be sidetracked.

Zern in Faculty
Teaching Mining

The School of Mines of the University of Pittsburgh opened last Monday with a large enrollment of new students. Dr. M. E. Wadsworth, dean of the school, announces that much equipment has been added to the laboratories and collections and that the present year will undoubtedly be the most successful in the school's history. All of last year's graduates, eighteen in number, are now employed throughout the country with mining concerns.

Two changes have been made in the faculty. E. N. Zern, who has been mine superintendent with the H. C. Frick Coke Company and Jamison Coal & Coke Company since 1908 and who has had six years experience in practical coal and coke operations, has been appointed assistant professor of coal mining. Mr. Zern graduated from Pennsylvania State College in 1903, serving as instructor in Mineralogy and Mining in that institution for several years under Dr. Wadsworth. He was later employed with the Kentucky Coal Company, at Sturgis, Kentucky, and the Pittsburg Coal Company, at Clarkburg, W. Va. H. B. Moller, a member of last year's faculty in the School of Mines, has been advanced from instructor in Mining to Assistant Professor in Metallurgy. Mr. Moller graduated from the University of Pittsburgh in 1910, after pursuing studies at the University of Pennsylvania and Michigan College of Mines. He spent eight years as secretary of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, later being employed in practical mining work.

He wore a uniform of the Union News Company but told Burgess Evans this morning he had not worked for that concern since August 23.

The youth is being held until the arrival of officers from Pittsburgh. Cursching wore the uniform of the news company and figured he would be able to beat his way to Washington by that method.

Cold Snap has Hit Coke Region

A cold snap struck the coke region this morning with the temperature only 58 degrees at 8 o'clock and a chilly breeze giving a bracing tang to the atmosphere. Yesterday morning the mercury registered 70 degrees and was 76 last evening. The weather is clear and conditions are ideal for bringing out a good vote at this afternoon's primaries.

The river is rising slowly as a result of the recent rains, which were so heavy in the mountain districts. The stream was at 6.75 foot stage this morning. Last evening the gauge registered 6.50 feet.

FEMALE FAGIN
GOT RICH BOOTY.

Little Slavish Girl's Operations Were Multitudinous.

TOOK FINE RINGS TO JAM

Operations Have Resulted in Losses Aggregating a Considerable Amount but it was a Sweet Tooth That Resulted in Her Detection.

A female Fagin is in the hands of the police whose operations over the past year or more have been conducted in practically every hotel of town and the plunder ranging from diamond rings to glasses of jam. It was the irony of fate that the discovery of her operations should come from a too strongly developed taste for sweets.

Yesterday morning the girl, who is known to the police as Dora Drusdo, went to the Young House basement and extracted a jar of jam. She returned in the afternoon to get another glass of the sweets when she was detected. Constable J. W. Mitchell was called and placed her under arrest. She implicated Kate Kinsky in her operations and Kate was located in Dutch Bottom. She was kept at the Wyman hotel under surveillance.

Dora told the police several tales. Some of them she later denied, and in the end her statements were so grossly inconsistent the officers practically abandoned hope of securing a straight story from her.

The fact remains that jewelry and other valuables aggregating several hundred dollars in value, are missing. The losses date back over a year. Mrs. Charles W. Patterson of the Wyman hotel lost five diamond rings and a brooch. Their value is in the neighborhood of $500. Kate Kinsky told Mrs. Patterson that Dora had stolen the rings and gave an accurate description of them. Dora first admitted the theft and said she had sold them to a second hand dealer. Later she denied that she ever saw the rings. At the Smith House a silver purse and gold watch belonging to Miss Helen Straub, daughter of A. A. Straub, are missing. Dora admitted taking the purse but denied the theft of the watch. At the Young House, some time ago, H. M. Kopinski lost a purse containing money and papers. Dora admitted that theft.

The girl told the police the modus operandi she followed. She would go into the hotel and prowl about the rooms. If detected she made the excuse of looking for employment. Sometimes she was merely taken for some of the help. It is said that during the past year she has pilfered things from the rooms of the Wyman, Smith, Arlington, Central and St. James hotels. She also entered the home of Lott Rush on South Pittsburgh street.

Dora told the officers she had concealed some of the plunder beneath the board walk in front of her home in Dutch Bottom. Nothing was found there and a search was made this morning by Burgess Evans and Chas. W. Patterson. Yesterday afternoon the girl took Constable J. W. Mitchell to the dump in Dutch Bottom where Kate Kinsky was found in conversation with another girl. Both girls are about 14 years of age.

The girl is also supposed to be the one who took several sets of furs from the cloak room of Markell hall during a dance one night last winter. Information against both girls was made before Squire W. P. Clark by Paul Holger for the theft of the jelly from the Young House.

YANKEE ADMIRAL ON DECK

Bucknam Pasha Will Lead the Star and Crescent Navy During the War. Italy Mobilizes Troops on the Austrian Frontier.

United Press Telegram.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30.—Martial law was declared here this afternoon as a precaution against the threatened uprising against the Young Turk government. The Turkish fleet, under command of Admiral Bucknam, an American, arrived here today. Most of the fleet will be held in Golden Horn. The torpedo boats and destroyers, however, will raid the Italian coast.

A national boycott of Italian goods has begun. The Italian fleet bombarded Preveza today, destroying the Governor's house and many private buildings. It is reported another torpedo boat has been sunk. However, this may be the one which was lost yesterday.

Troops are reported to be landing and hostilities are expected to be started in several other places today. The Young Turk government issued a statement today.

Italy has unmasked her hostile designs on Tripoli. There will be war between the two countries and our nation will employ every means against the enemy. Tripoli will courageously defend itself.

Italians are being expelled from Turkey and Italian places of business are being closed. The cabinet today issued an appeal to "the friendly and humanitarian feelings of the Powers" to prevent the consummation of the Italian grab of Tripoli. The note will be sent immediately to European capitals. The Turks do not attempt to disguise the embarrassment of their situation. Their army strength is superior to that of Italy, but is powerless without a navy.

The witnesses being unable to prove they had ever seen the defendant strike the child, the case was dismissed and the prosecutor paid the costs.

The Lake Erie's
Pittsburg Gateway

The Pittsburg & Lake Erie Railroad Company plans to give Pittsburg an imposing gateway to the city. The present entrance to the station in Smithfield street, and the approach thereto will be entirely reconstructed, and a large glass-roofed canopy erected that will cover the entire width of Smithfield street, including the two side walks in front of the depot. These improvements, when completed, will make the south end of Smithfield street bridge one of the beauty spots of the city.

Of the changes being made, the great canopy over Smithfield street will be the most striking and most original. This will be 40x80 feet in size and about 30 feet high. It will be supported by four massive ornamental iron columns, each 20 feet high, the height of the clear space beneath the top. The canopy proper will have four gables, each 10 feet high. The framework will be of iron, while all of the exposed parts will be of copper, worked with ornamental designs. The roof will be of glass. A large clock, electrically controlled and illuminated at night, will be placed in each of the two gables facing the street. The faces of these clocks will be over six feet in diameter.

A new porte cochere of great size and beauty will also be built. In addition to covering the wide sidewalks, as does the present shelter, the new one will extend many feet over the driveway.

The railroad company is also building a subway across Smithfield street, directly below the street canopy, and a waiting room at the east side of the street. This will enable its patrons to leave the station and reach city-bound cars via the subway without being compelled to cross the car tracks. The estimated cost of the work is over $50,000.

WILL GO AHEAD WITH WORK

Cars Will Reach Barns by Way of Leisenring Avenue and Rails Are Already on the Ground—Ends Long Standing Negotiations.

The Western Maryland and the West Penn have come to an agreement relative to the change of the West Penn tracks approaching the Greenwood town. This statement was made by Operating Manager W. E. Moore of the West Penn this morning just before leaving for Pittsburgh.

Under the terms of the agreement the West Penn cars will reach the barns by way of Leisenring avenue. At present they come down Morrell avenue and until the agreement was reached the work on the new railroad was interfered with to some extent.

Sleuth Rull
Lands Thief

Officer P. M. Rull is getting into the "sleuth" class along with other local police celebrities. Friday Rull apprehended the burglar who entered the store of William Chinter on North Pittsburgh street. It happened that Turner Green, a negro who is no stranger in police circles, was the guilty party.

Rull caught Green along Water street as he attempted to dispose of the stolen plunder. He had with him watch chains, fobs, charms, lodge pins, a watch and other articles having an aggregate value of $27.75.

Constable Barthold Rottler made in-madon against Green before Squire W. P. Clark and the negro was held for court at a hearing this morning. "That fellow must have been a real burglar," Rull said. "He had a search-light on him."

Tom McDonald
Roots for Turks

The Turko-Dago war is the principal topic of conversation at the police station this morning before the hearings. Officer P. M. Rull, a native of Sunny Italy, is, naturally, greatly interested in the movements of the Italian troops and ships. He is certain King Victor Emmanuel's country will come out victorious.

The cause of the Turks is being espoused valiantly by Officer Thomas McDonald, despite the fact that he is a hopeless minority. "Tom says these Turks don't have much of a way but are great fighters on land. There is just a suspicion that 'Irish Tom' is shouting for Turkey just to keep Rull from becoming too chummy over prospective Italian victories. At that Tom is a pretty good Turk himself.

THE FIRST AERONAUT.

Kingsley's Querer Idea and an Embarrassing Coincidence.

Charles Kingsley was at a dinner once with the aeronaut Coxwell. He was shortly after Coxwell and a companion had made a flight in which they had risen so high that Coxwell's hands were frozen and he had time only to tear open the air valve with his teeth. A. C. Benson tells the story in "The Leaves of the Tree" in the North American Review. After dinner Kingsley suddenly said:

"I have often thought that the first man that ever went up in a balloon must have been a dentist."

Some one laughed and said, "What an extraordinary idea!" "I don't know," said Kingsley, "a man who is always looking down people's throats, and pulling their teeth about, and breathing their breath, must be inspired with a tremendous desire to get away and above it all."

Coxwell leaned forward and said very good humoredly, "Well, Mr. Kingsley, it is true that I am a dentist, but it was not that that made me become an aeronaut."

"My dear Mr. Coxwell," said Kingsley, flushing red, "I am sure I beg your pardon. I had no idea it was so. You must have thought me stupid. I'll manage to make a joke of it."

Kingsley could not recover his spirits for the rest of the evening. He hated giving pain to any human being more perhaps than anything in the world.

A STORM ON GALILEE.

Fierce While It Lasted, It Went as Quickly as It Came.

This sea of Galilee is not always calm. The mountains immediately adjoining it are 2000 feet high, and through their deep gorges the storm winds are sucked into the hollow of the lake, so that sudden squalls come literally out of a blue sky. One charming spring morning we started out to sail from Tiberias to Capernaum. There was not a ripple on the water or a cloud in the heavens. But when we were a quarter of a mile from shore out boatmen noticed a band of rough water rushing toward us from the other side of the lake. In spite of our remonstrances they immediately gave up the plan for making Capernaum, took down the sail with such frantic haste that they nearly upset the boat and then rowed for the land with all their might and with such excited urgency to one another that we thought them a cowardly crew. But hardly had the boat been beached in a sheltered cove when the wind was howling down on us from the mountains and the heavy breakers were foaming along the shore as far out into the lake as we could see. A quarter of an hour later the sea of Galilee was again as level as a mirror, and only a soft, warm breeze was blowing over the smiling waters.—Travel Magazine.

SEWERS OF PARIS.

How This Great System Swallows Up the Litter of the Streets.

The Paris sewer system is said to be the finest in the world. The observant visitor in the French capital soon notices that its people have somewhat different ideas from ours as to the use of sewers for he will see porters throw big bundles of paper down large openings left in the curb, and even rags and garbage.

On Tuesday there is a car parade along the Paris boulevards. From noon to midnight the crowd throws paper confetti in such quantities that the broad streets are covered with many tinted paper snow when the last revelers leave for home. The visitor wonders how this mess is to be cleared up. In the morning, however, every scrap is gone. If he had stayed out late enough he would have seen the litter swept and washed right into the sewers.

Perhaps it takes him underground to visit them, one of the sights of Paris. There are nearly 2000 separate channels, some great aqueducts navigated in a boat, with walks on either side. They carry the telephone and telegraph cables, electric light wires, gas mains and pneumatic letter tubes.—Telephone Review.

Matter and Force

There is no such thing as a loss of matter or force. The so-called "conservation" of matter and its forces was demonstrated years ago by Joule and other scientists. When, for instance, a thing "burns up," as we say, the substances that give out the light and heat are changed, not destroyed. The wood or whatever the substance happens to be becomes ashes and gas, and if we could gather up all the products of the burning we should find that they had not lost a particle of their weight and that the form of them only was changed. The eternity of matter was a teaching of the old Greek philosophers, or of some of them at least, and the modern teaching of the conservation or indestructibility of the stuff of the universe would seem to corroborate the ancient idea.—New York American.

A Trail of Twisted Trees.

All manner of devices have been employed to mark a line of march, but it is thought that the most curious method of "blazing the trail" is that still to be seen in Africa. In the year 1889, after a fierce battle with the Abyssinians, the desperadoes pursued their foes as far as the lake district. The mahdi's men had small knowledge of geography and little topographical intelligence. So the advance party, in order to mark the route for those who came after and also to guide the force on their return journey, twisted the saplings along the way into living knots. The war ended, but the knot up trees were and nourished, although uncouthly twisted and distorted, and are now the only reminders of that uprising of the desperadoes.

CHINESE INGENUITY.

How One Cover Was Made to Fit a Roomful of Sleepers.

A writer in a French magazine tells a curious story about how they manage cheap lodging houses in China.

Along Chinese roads, it seems, there are many of these lodging houses, where the charge for a night's lodging is considerably less than 1 cent. All the bedding provided is one huge mass of feathers, into which all the guests burrow.

Formerly they used to get blankets, but some time ago those who ran these primitive houses learned that their losses on account of the theft of blankets by guests were far too large something they decided, had to be done. Finally an ingenious man among them hit on this.

Over the feather filled room of his lodging house he hung an enormous canvas covering. In the daytime it hung near the ceiling. At night it was lowered by means of pulleys until it covered the entire mass of feathers and all those sleeping thereon, thus taking the place of individual blankets. This huge canvas was provided with a large number of small slits through which the guests might stick their heads and escape suffocation beneath the immense covering.

Early each morning the loud pounding of a drum served to awaken the sleepers and warn them to get their heads out of the slits in the canvas. Thereupon it was raised again to the ceiling and fastened there to await the next batch of sleepers.

SATURDAY EVENING, SEP. 30, 1911.

THE INCONSISTENCY OF A POLITICAL ORGAN.

"Consistency, thou art a jewel," and it grieves us much to note that thou art missing in the glittering diadem of the Conneltsville Herald of Morning.

In a frenzied jumble of capital letters and large type, occupying the limelight position of center of first page, under frantic headlines of black and threatening type, this original inventor and indelible and persistent maker of political slates, calls upon the voters of Fayette county to rise up and smash the Crow Councilman and County Slates, because they are supported by corporate interests.

Corporate interests do not usually cut a very wide swath in politics.
Labor is more independent now. Corporation officers have to be for somebody, however, and it seems from the trumpeting indignation of The Morning Herald that they are not on its side this time. It is a matter of history, however, that they have been aligned with its faction and have been welcomed by it with open arms. Like everybody else, the corporations are neutral when they line up for The Herald and its faction, and utterly vile when they are not. This cry about corporations interfering in the primary is a vain repetition of the cry of "Wolf!" There is no wolf. The Herald is merely trying by this bait subterfuge to create a stampede for its slate.

"Smash the Crow Slate!" cries The Herald. This sounds very patriotic coming from the official organ of the Cooper-Johns-Brownfield Slate, which has been much in evidence for several months past. Slates are things the Conneltsville Herald should never under any circumstances discuss, much less object to. Slates have been its specialty ever since it was born. It is probable that the people will do some slate-smashing in this primary. The indications are that The Herald Slate is a favorite target.

The Herald further charges "an afternoon paper in Uniontown and one in Conneltsville" with being "discredited by the corporations" and says their support has been purchased by these corporate interests. "Just as they would purchase a venal vote." We do not intend to pass upon the identity of these newspapers, or upon their guilt or innocence, but they could not be more culpable than the Uniontown Herald, which is owned outright by certain politicians dominating the political faction it represents, and from whom it has always taken its orders daily and hourly in all matters directly or remotely connected with politics.

When the Kettle called the Pot black, all the other Kettles in Conneltsville gave the Kettle the sarcastic howl.
Haw.

THE WAIL OF DEFEAT.

The Uniontown Herald, official representative of a Fayette county Republican faction, after trying for several months to "ram down the throats" of the Republicans of Fayette county its particular slated candidates, delivers itself thus:

The principal reason The Herald has taken such a strenuous hand in the Republican primary contests in the county is really that of party interests.

This paper will not stand for candidates unless they can stand the test of honesty, ability, energy and independence.

This paper will not stand for any candidate rammed down the throats of the people either through the exercise of coercion or predatory corporate interests.

Is this a threat to bolt the ticket if
The Herald Slate is not nominated?
It sounds like the wail of defeat.

If we can't win we won't play.
What sort of Republicanism is this?
It is the kind that deserves a unanimous rebuke today.

We note that the editorial columns of our esteemed contemporary, The News, Official Organ of Conneltsville and the Young Men's Union, are certainly a political interest, are now presided over by a distinguished West State political economist.
The assertions of this distinguished writer have the merit of never being dry. They are invariably accompanied by a dash of water.

The war between Italy and Turkey has reached its conclusion.

After the Pittsburg & Lake Erie ceased its handsome Pittsburg gateway, it ought to come across and build a handsome hotel on the site of the historic Monticello House.

John L. Stewart of the Washington, Pa. Observer and Reporter, morning and evening papers respectively, bought the Evening Times last March and has since devoted some of his time to its rehabilitation. A new Goss perfecting press has been installed and the equipment otherwise materially strengthened and improved. The paper has also a new home especially adapted to its needs. It occupies a very central location in the Beaver Valley and under the able and energetic direction of its owner we have no doubt it will become a newspaper power and a publishing profit. On Monday of this week, The Times put forth a special edition of 40 pages, well filled with advertising not only from Beaver business men, but likewise from some twenty-five towns within a radius of some twenty miles.

The Courier congratulates Publisher Stewart upon his latest journalistic venture. It looks like a large winner.

The primary campaign has reached the capital letter stage.

The Uniontown Herald makes the statement that "Political, Financial and Corporate Interests have subverted a certain afternoon paper in Uniontown and another in Conneltsville." The Herald then goes on to say that support of these newspapers just as they would purchase a venal vote. In view of the fact that The Courier pays just the same as everybody else for its gas and water, light and power, and every other service it gets from corporate sources, we are compelled to assume that this reference is not intended for us.

"Politics makes strange bedfellows."

The Uniontown Herald, personal organ of Sheriff John, and Kinser is an ignorant and unlettered man. It seems, however, that he knows how to trim the Sheriff's bills, especially his benzene bills.

"Macbeth" is coming to Conneltsville.
He is somewhat of a detective himself, but thorough inquiry fails to trace any relationship between him and slates, our excellent County Detective.

The Weather Man is kind to the political workers on Primary Day.

After many years, Pittsburg has a school of mine. Conneltsville ought to have had one long ago. The Trustees of the Carnegie Library tried to interest the founder in a proposition of this character, but he declined at that time to make an appropriation for the purpose.

The apprehension of the two small slates speak themselves presents a sad case of misdirected foreign energy.

"Smash the Slate!"

A great many Fayette county people will be glad when this primary is over.

President Taft is swinging around the circle illuminating the nation with the Taft smile and illuminating the understanding of his fellow citizens with many frank expressions of many public questions.

The Uniontown Herald has an attack of Anaphrodisia. It's ketichin, but it's not dangerous.

QUO VADIS.

By James of Yukon.

Quo Vadis was the son-in-law of Ben Hur. They were natives of Rome Poland and came over in the same boat. They brought with them some of the most valuable of the treasures of civilization that had accumulated in the home country for years. Their stuffed and strangled ambition to become merchant monarchs soon began to be as cheerful as a twin rainbow when looked out in its evening dress sail.

Mr. Hur and his son-in-law, together with their tribe, landed at Castle Garden in the winter, when it was possible to bring all of their high-speeded atmosphere and tripled-extra-ordained barbarism with them past the guards. Cold weather had so shrunk both impediments of progress that the Federal inspectors did not turn their search lights on them. The all passed muster.

One year after their coming over, and after the completion of a business foothold in progressive city, they were found in the clothing business in a good locality. Mill hands and farmers were attracted by the sight of Hur Vadis, dry goods and silks, hard lumber, lime, linseed oil, coffee, sack, cheese, plow, nails, tin-nail, shot guns, gent's furnishings, 30 cents on the dollar and forced to the wall to stay.

Vadis and his father-in-law were making money fast and drinking at the same time. They managed to answer roll call at different burgomasters.
The mother and daughter kept store while their men were at the booze racks. Trade began to drop and Quo Vadis began to use too much coin.
At the end of a three-month stay in cane-wind ranch, the two men dissolved partnership.

Quo Vadis moved up street one square and told his friends that he was going to break the old man up. He had been in this country for fifteen years and in the meantime an epidemic of twins had broken out in his family, all of which united their strength to wreck the old man.

Prices were slaughtered in both stores. Mr. Vadis had many of his prices below cost. Mr. Hur got a friend to go over and buy tons of goods and bring them around at night to his store. Strange to say old man Hur got to selling things below cost and his son-in-law had friends to buy the goods and bring them around. Quo Vadis succeeded in cutting each other's throats financially.

After two sheriff sales and a funeral of a brace of twins, the two families were united. They started in business and put up the same old sign. They prospered and when they wanted a wink they went to the same burgomaster.
They were brought home in the same ambulance when "united." They got brighter disease from looking at the house of a Jew, and in the same room and were buried in the same grave.

When the tomb stone agent asked Mrs. Ben Hur what the inscription on the monument should be, she told him in her broken knee-bent way:

"Get make in Hur and Vadis, dry goods and shoes, hard, lumber, lime, linseed oil and so on, 20 cents on the dollar, forced to the wall to stay, they lived as they died."

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30, 1911.

Worries of the broken tracks abroad a country increasing number of American and English tourists are seeking new sights and experiences in the northern countries of Europe.

W. S. Consul W. C. Haman, stationed at Hull, England, says:
"Improvements have been made in the land travel of Europe, and an increased number of railroad trains in connection with the North Sea boats and the addition of fast steamers have caused all tourists to travel in the public to be quick to respond."

Norway, Sweden and Finland, with their fine scenery and interesting people, are becoming increasingly popular with American and English holiday makers. The present season promises to surpass all others in the number visiting these countries.

"Norway's charms for holiday makers are drawing an increasing number of tourists year after year.
Sweden also has many attractive features for the same class of travelers, but Finland, with its thousand lakes, in the newest country on the tourist list. If the tide of travel from America to grow in volume Finland will soon be on the beaten track. One of the attractions of Finland is that they sailing from this port is that they are under Finnish captain, and that the crew and staff and the fare are also Finnish, so that from the very moment the steamer has cast off its moorings at the Hull dock there on board can enter on the novel experience abroad."

The Football Season Opens Today

United Press Telegram.
CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Today marks the real opening of the football season in the middle West, though several of the college teams made their debut a week ago, while others will not begin their schedules until next week. The outlook for a successful season is regarded as promising. Minnesota is reported to have fully as good a team as last year, when the Gophers disputed with Michigan the championship of the West. Illinois, which also claimed the championship, is back with as strong if not a stronger team than last season, and Illinois and Indiana likewise have put formidable eleven in the field. At Michigan the coaches are reported to be well satisfied with the outlook for the season in the return of practically all of the veterans of last year, and Purdue is hopeful of making a much better showing than in 1910. Wisconsin again is an unknown quantity, as are Chicago and Northwestern.

The strong teams, however, are not confined to the "big eight" or to Michigan, Notre Dame and Marquette will be well up in the running and Nebraska is considered on par with some of the "big eight" eleven. Like Forest, Deloit, Knox and Wabash, not to mention Michigan Agricultural College, which beat some of the best last year, are expected to be found near the front when the season closes.

The most important game scheduled for today is that between Minnesota and Iowa State College, at Northrup field. Indiana will play DePaul at Bloomington and Ohio State will face Otterbein at Columbus.

Save Your Silver Trading Coupons For the Best Premiums on Earth.

Silver Trading Premiums secured for certificates representing $25 or $50 are, in some instances, more valuable than you can get for stamps to the value of $100 through some other system.

Rogers' Warranted Silverware; Rick Cut Glass; Imported China; Bric-a-Brac; Furniture; Copper and Brass Wares, etc., etc., for Well-Appointed Homes.

A report is being circulated that the Wright-Metzler Company intends abandoning Silver Trading Premiums. The report is false and was set in motion to attain a certain object for other people. The Wright-Metzler Company are not quitters once convinced that they have something most beneficial for the people they serve.

Within the past year no less than three representatives of a premium proposition now located in the city have attempted to establish its wares through special inducements to the Wright-Metzler Company, and of small benefit to the people most concerned.

The Wright-Metzler Company are slow to act and for two years they carefully studied the various premium systems.

The one they adopted is quicker in results to those who save the coupons; cheaper in that smaller amounts are required of those who secure the premiums, but more costly to maintain because of first two reasons, than any other premium proposition.

The Wright-Metzler Company is not quoting the fact boastfully that their premiums cost more than all others, but it is a necessary statement to make the other facts clearly understood.
